

The basics of our style of play

TOPIC: THE IDENTIFYING COMPONENTS OF FB BARCELONA
PART 3

We know that the orientation of the body and head is essential in order to perceive what happens in the environment. However, is it necessary to point out the important stimuli to the players so that they pay attention to these and not to other stimuli? Or, given the emergence of the actions, will the player be constrained when performing an action, based on the interaction between the context and his/her abilities?

Behavioral Approach

Relationship

Linear

Stimulus

Answer

In soccer, we must question the idea:

Efficiency

Player